

Home is both a location and a feeling.

When we think of home, we can think of a place, our childhood home or a grandparent's home. It can also be an emotion, a place of comfort, peace and love.

The parable of the Prodigal Son is a reminder that we can always come back home. We can always come back to the Father.

The prodigal son ran far away from home after he had been given such great wealth by the father.

He wasted everything that was given to him, yet the father welcomed him back and celebrated his return.

Luke 15:11-32

We are all prodigals

You are never too far from home that you can't come back
